

CST-L3 Assignment – Research

Assignment Title and Brief:-

Explain why research findings are important in counselling work

You might include:-

- An explanation of what research is
- The different types of research method that can be used (questionnaires, surveys etc)
- How research in the counselling profession might be carried out and any ethical implications to consider
- An explanation as to why research within the counselling profession is important
- How research within the counselling profession has been useful
- Wider implications of research into the effectiveness of counselling (policy, funding etc)
- You could look at some research into a particular aspect of counselling work and report your findings, linking this to why the research is important for the profession.
-

Your assignment should include:-

- An introduction
- A main body of work (perhaps covering some of the suggestions above)
- A conclusion

You can refer to the CPCAB criteria as you can use this assignment to cover some of these criteria in your work. Remember to reference your work too!

Word Count 1500

Tutor Feedback

Name Signed Date

Criteria met